Updated: July 23, 2019 Swati Mishra More than a decade, a number of programs were launched by the Government of India with an idea that helped to improve life in the country. One such program was the Vibrant Gujarat Global Summit, which was conceptualized in 2003 by the Government of Gujarat with a vision to restore the state as the preferred investment destination in India. Started as a small step, no one was aware that the summit would evolve into such a brainstorming platform on the state's global socio-economic development agendas. The summit led to a merger of investors, politicians and business leaders to take a step forward for investment in the state. Today, the platform is open to talking and accepting challenges related to business ideas, organizing, networking, sharing, and learning for Living India. If you remember the earthquakes of 2001 and 2002 in Gujarat; many people lost their lives, homes and the state had to go through serious losses in sectors including healthcare, tourism, infrastructure and investment opportunities. After the incident, Gujarat's reputation began to diminish, and foreigners declared Gujarat a dangerous place to live or even invest. Despite these disasters, Gujarat has returned to the place in terms of business and investment, but the negative picture was already there in people's minds. This time, the government of Gujarat was considering reviving the pace of investment in the state. In that sense, a state that is safe, safe for living, establishing business and investment opportunities. With that, the idea of attracting more investors was emphasized so that more businesses would help in the development of the state. Thus, Vibrant Gujarat was conceptualized, which successfully drove the key message that 'Gujarat is the best investment destination.' Today, Vibrant Gujarat is no longer known as the 'Investor Summit', but has become a global platform for sharing knowledge as well as networking. The dates of the 9th Vibrant Gujarat Global Summit are out, which will take place between 17th and 20th January 2019. For those looking forward to being part of the global summit, individual registration is available on vibrant gujarat's main website.
